Clever Sketches at Country Club.

The drama as it was and is material for one of the cleverest bits of burlesque ever presented by home talent at the Country club Tuesday night at the program for the regular club night.

Mrs. Paul Pullen, Evansville, also directed the two sketches "Cast Off" and "Sister" a new cast including Mrs. Paul Pullen, arranged from "Sketches" by Jackcock.

"The Drama As It See It" and "Wild Nell, the Pet of the Plains" or "The Final Sacrifice." With the exception of Mrs. Ruth Kunkin Chase, this city, the sea coast traveley was presented by a group of Evansville men and women who have distinguished themselves in theatricals for the past three years.

Four acts of hectic action during which time the mortgage is foreclosed, the ship wrecks, and many other tragic incidents occur made for lively entertainment in the sea coast drama. Mrs. Chase as Martha, Esther Klein as Phoebe and L. J. Roberts as Jack were especially splendid in their roles, although the other characters were also played in a manner that presented this play very well.

Mrs. Paul Pullen, Marion Spratler, L. Hobart, E. M. Carson, H. A. Smith, Esther Klein and E. H. Fellow all of Evansville and Mrs. Ruth Chase, this city, Mrs. Paul Pullen gave the prologue.

Under the direction of Mack Scott, Jeffries (M. G. Jeffries) and the great Nevada was depicting the noble sacrifice of Wild Nell was presented in the following men and women: Gloria Swanson Wood (Mrs. Pierpont Wood), Rudolph Valentino (K. H. Jeffries), Billie Dove (Mrs. S. Lovejoy), Jack Hoxie Jacobs (Rex Jacobs), Gilda Gray Williamson (Mrs. Chester Williamson) and Dorothy Dalton Jeffries (Mrs. K. H. Jeffries).

Mr. Hobart had the scenario while his players gave the pantomime. Miss Frances Jackson gave the piano accompaniment. A mighty climax was reached when Wild Nell (Mrs. K. H. Jeffries) stabbed herself after taunting Harry (K. H. Jeffries) and the audience (Mrs. Pierpont Wood) from the wild Indians. Mr. Lovejoy and Rex Jacobs acted prominently and the Indian chief, Sitting Bull and his tribe, Bull Durban.

One hundred and forty-seven were served at the supper, while 100 others attended the entertainment for the other coming parts for the program.

Supper was served at small tables, with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Jacobs in charge.

Mrs. A. B. Burnham entertained a party of five in honor of Mr. and Mrs. David Holmes and Mrs. A. B. Burnham, hostess for five, but the two guests were Mrs. John P. Stevens, Lake Geneva; Mrs. Louise Williamson and Mrs. Bertha Mead, Milwaukee; Mrs. Ada Lovejoy, Boston, Mass.; Mrs. J. H. Benson, Chicago; Daniel Stelling, Waukesha; Mr. Malcolm Jeffries, Waukesha.

The Able McLaughlins

By MARGARET WILSON

(Copyright Harper & Bro.)

The boy struggled wet into his shirt and overalls and stretching his body. Wally had to realize his mother's zeal to help little Keith vanished as she grew distant. In her presence, in the presence of Motto-chool itself, so to speak, they were shame-faced and eager, deploring their helplessness as men are while their wives labor in childbirth. But away from her, away from them, they torrof... as men do after a bath is over... and turned again to their own comfort. Dad broke the silence surprisedly.

"Christopher, be glad if he was dead," he said, resentfully.

"Why, Dad!" exclaimed Wally.

"She would! She hates him!"

"He's your cousin, lad!"

"He's as much your cousin as he is mine! She can't endure the sight of him!"

Wally sat up. He looked at Dad. He had thought of him always as a child. He was a big, tall boy now. Fourteen years old he was, and doubtless able to put two and two together. How much did he know? He must have heard people talking.

He had always wondered why he had not always been afraid of Dad.

To be sure, he had always been careful to keep on the good side of his little brother-in-law.

"He never does us any good!" Dad spoke vindictively.

Now what could he mean by that? Wally was getting excited.

Wally had been so afraid of the moment against Peter, he had against him.

Wally, under the circumstances? Dad's sudden and apparent preference for Wally at once grew odious to him. Dad had chosen that morning to work with Wally. Wally was always clinging to work with Wally.

He had always been afraid to hint to him that he had never been suspicious of the lad before.

Wally dared not say to him:

"Well, he never did you any special harm, did he?" Suppose Dad would blurt out what he knew?

He said, confusively:

"Well, Mr. Dad. You oughtn't to talk that way. Not at this time. I mean—you can't speak ill of the dead, you know."

"I ain't said half the truth!"

Don't Pay

For beauty you fail to get

By EDNA WALLACE HOPPER

I am not a cosmetic maker, not a beauty expert. My work is on the stage and screen. But I have had advantages which most girls and women lack. I have a rich, ambitious mother who took me in a car to search for the ultimate in beauty tips. Then when I became a famous beauty, even the scientists who made a discovery sent it to me.

Now I wish all girls and women to share that good fortune with me. I found help which I could apply myself, and which have been most costly to my old age. And great experts tell me that every woman can like ways secure like results.

So I am sending my tips, which I spent a life time in finding, every woman's kit. All druggists and toilet counters now supply them. But with one exception, guaranteed. I instruct every doctor to give me the money to anyone disappointed, and charge the amount to me.

My marvelous lotion is due to a special cream. It combines the products of both a woman and a man. Also all the best that modern science knows to foster smooth, soft, glowing skin. I use it as a night cream, also daily as a powder base, even as a soap within my baby skin. At my age, skin becomes much more sensitive to weather. Not once in all the time I have ever met has ever found a cream to compare.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream is now supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. At 50¢ per jar and 35¢ per tube. But, I shall be glad to send you a sample if you wish. Just mail the coupon for it, and my beauty book will come with it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson:

I have written you before and was well pleased with your advice. Now my son is three months, one week old. He used to take any amount of water and now refuses it. He weighs 13½ pounds. He starts to howl about 7 and howls himself to sleep. Sometimes it lasts three hours and then he is nursed and goes to sleep.

"Lately when I nurse him, he flings and squirms, draws away from the breast and comes back immediately. I think he is half starved. I know I have plenty of milk. He rarely nurses more than 10 minutes."

Answer:

I should not worry about the water, though would try to give him some with a spoon. The boy is telling you plainly that there is not enough in the breast. You must not after those feedings let him sleep. And when you would let him sleep, and whether you would let him sleep two ounces of half milk and half water he would take every bit of it. Also he would go to sleep at night instead of crying and telling you the boy knows how that he has not had enough to eat. Fix the milk half and half, let him have a spoonful or two at night if he seems inclined to take that much. If you weigh him before and after nursing you can tell exactly how much milk he gets to you.

The leaflet I have on constipation which can be had for a self-addressed and stamped envelope will help you, but the increased diet will likely do the trick.

Busy Man's Sport Page

BY FRANK SINCLAIR

THE OLD gag is no more, the saying: "Washington first won, lost in peace and last in the American League," has got to be changed. The power to come from behind and a pitching staff strong enough to keep them on top, sped the Nationals to the first pennant in their history. The Senators' victory was all the more creditable when it is remembered that in the Yanks, they had a tremendous foot-dragger. It was not until the game next to the last that the Washington team was certain of the flag and they were handicapped in the last three games by minor injury to Walter Johnson, their veteran sensational hurler. Busch, addition to the team, was glad, happy in the rise of the underdog and joyous that down-on-will-at-last get his chance to share in the world series. Nothing will be finer now for most of the followers of the game, that the world title for the Senators had been so nobly and gallantly fought for the trophies at the beginning of the season just naturally placed them in first place.

Geneva Soldiers Have Strong Team with Many "Vets"

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Waukegan—"The Northwestern Military and Naval Academy at Lake Geneva expects to have a very strong football team this season. The first four football teams brought out about 700 candidates, among whom many of the members of last year's first and second teams as well as a bunch of bushy new "phets," among whom are some experienced high school football players. The group of veterans who reported to Capt. Schenck was made up of Bielicki, Crawford, Heneke, Prost, Tarr, Wagner, Waukegan and Waukegan.

At present, Capt. Cill expects to build a team which is to meet some of the outstanding "pros" teams of the middle west. The schedule this year is very strenuous and includes such team as Shattuck, Morgan Park, Elgin, and several of the Milwaukee and Chicago High Schools.

Northwestern has a new coach this year, the former R. Wayne Gill, A. J. Anthony, college, formerly coach of Bartram college. He comes strongly recommended and with the splendid material he has expects to turn out one of the strongest cadet teams the school has ever known. Owing to the late opening of school the coach is using every moment of the spare time of the cadets to get the team in shape.

Monday several company teams were formed and a series of inter-company games will be played off, starting with the first game next Wednesday. The company games will enable to get them on my hitherto undevoted material which will possibly be worth a place on the first or second teams.

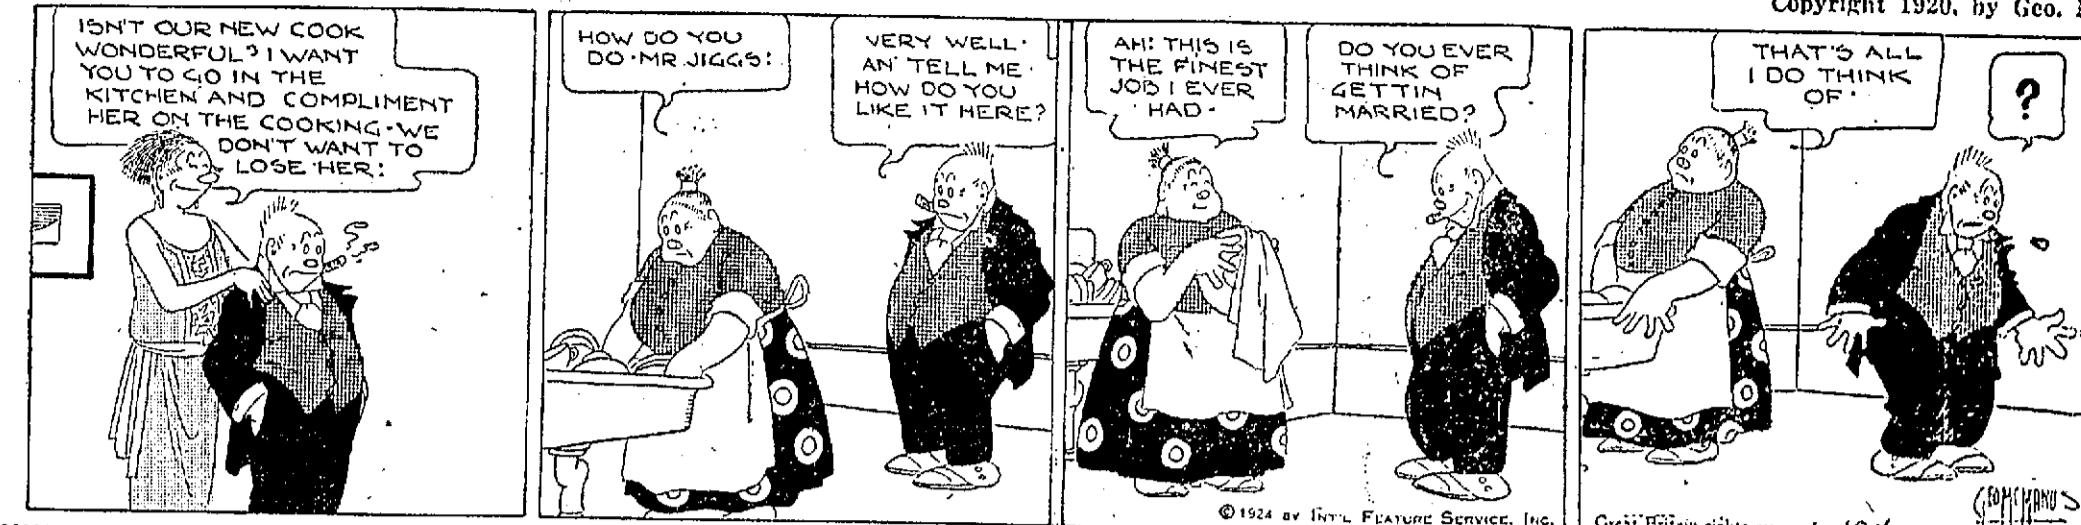

GRANGE IS PLICKED.—The winning of the American League pennant by Washington casts into the discard an innumerable phrase originated years ago. It was about Washington, first in war, first in peace and last in the American league.

Senators Feted Wednesday on Return from Campaign

Altrock Is Champ

Washington—The "standing batter" of the major leagues in 1924 turns out to be "Uncle Nick" Altrock, comedian extraordinary and coach of the Washington Americans. Serving as relief pitcher in the Senators' final game of the season with the Red Sox Tuesday at Boston, "Nick," who is on Washington's roster of eligible world series players, smashed out a triple in his only at bat for the season, and became the subject of descriptive words and artists, will be the only candidate to edge into the national picture during the week beginning Saturday.

The baseball miracle performed by the Senators has made it necessary for the business officials of the club to perform another marvel, if the enthusiasm from all over the south and the entire portion of Washington are not exceeded last night at the capacity park on Saturday and Sunday.

Giant officials are placidly stretching up the certified checks and money orders with the knowledge of a 64,000 plant waiting and eager to be flooded with humanity.

Details Are Settled

Commissioner Landis of Washington Wednesday to watch the returning heroes return, attended a meeting of officials of the two contending clubs here Tuesday, at which the necessary business details were discussed.

The high lord of baseball Judiciary predicted a "rippling gale."

After the battle, the stars rest, allow themselves to be interviewed, and prepare to write masterpieces for the papers about what happens on the field during the series; dinners are being proffered recklessly; flags wave in Coffeyville, the home of Walter Johnson, and in Princeton, the winter home of Sam Loring.

From points east and west come interviews from men who knew these national heroes in lesser days—when Johnson was a struggling engineer, and Buckeye Harris, a youth in a coal mine. They are pointed to as examples for the American youth who now no longer in either case.

Babe Ruth, the star of the league, loyalty between New York and the American league and describes the feeling of being an outsider; although what Babe does in this series will not be of a nature to thrill the public, Babe will sit in the press box and drive off metathoracic home runs with his heavy imagination. The other Yankees, with whom the heroes play, Babe as their sole representative, at the other day.

Reason for Campaign

For the first time it has been wagging whether a lack of official governmental recognition to present the game of the United States to the forces speedily extinction of many game districts if the present rate of game destruction is not lessened.

It denounced "the idle system of free game shooting for every man, woman and boy who can carry a gun and have a $1.40 for a license."

"The game is not getting even a semblance of a square deal," he declared. "In view of the awful handicaps now upon all kill game, the bag-hunts and open seasons are fully one-half the time, murderous and exterminatory."

Already the game of the United States is decreased about 9 per cent from what it was, and through many areas many species have become extinct.

Season Is Ended

Even the umpires step and do their best to be administered Tuesday that William C. Keeler, Boston, and Conch Eddie Anderson, St. Louis, would represent the National League; Tommy Connally and William Dickey had previously been selected by the American league.

The gamblers, despite the frown of Commissioner Landis, quote odds which have not departed appreciably from previous money.

Already the game of the United States is decreased about 9 per cent from what it was, and through many areas many species have become extinct.

WASHINGTON INFIELD READY TO HOLD FORT

Stable Loop for Midwest

Though the feeling has been circulated that the Midwest baseball league has kicked the bucket, there is a definite move now on to make the organization a Wisconsin eng and permanent starting next season. The circuit always was of strong form until the Nelsens and Logans Squares, which had won some games from loop teams, asked for admission. Then along came the Massilians and Canton teams, which for new teams were not backed by financial concerns but when they found they could not draw and were losing money, they pulled out.

It is now understood on good authority that the circuit next year will be composed of industrial teams from the Pauls in Beloit, Nash in Kenosha, Simmons in Kenosha and the Harts in Milwaukee. The Harts did not run the Racine team last year, but let the Association of Commerce handle it. It is reported that the A.A. found the going too strong and Horlick is ready to take the club over again.

Ring Up the Curtain on WOMEN'S FASHIONS for FALL & WINTER

BY MURIEL TOWNLEY.

Slender and straight—for many a reason now straight lines of youth and simplicity have been our aim, but each season has its own means of achieving this result.

We saw a few bold, breezy frocks last summer, and at the time, fashion having tried them out, nodded her approval, they are to be better than ever this fall. They are exceptionally becoming, and doubtless women of taste and knowledge of dress will be enthusiastic supporters of fashion's dictum.

Another new style to be seen on many a charming new frock is the tunic. Sometimes these tunics are only to the knee, at others they are within two or three inches of the bottom of the skirt.

The Tunic Is Here.

So many of these tunics are worn that as might be expected there is a great variation in details and both剪影 and some are tight at the waist. Others are quite as tight as the underskirt and shaded up the side.

However, the most popular of all is the tunic which comes to within six or seven inches of the underskirt and varies from the softness to the tightest of necks and gowns, but for girls with darker frocks the whole wide of colors from dark brown to a light tan, grey and a soft green are very popular.

Skirts are definitely shorter. With the slim straight line which leads the mode today a long dress is really very becoming and commanding. So short is this skirt and we are back once more to the youthful, practical and comfortable short skirt. This year's skirt reaches from about six to eight inches below the knee.

Bengaline Again.

This promises to be a season when silk frocks will be worn a great deal. Silk frocks in summer modes for morning as well as afternoon wear. Bengaline and faille are the favorites.

Ribbed silks are leading the mode in every possible interpretation—ribbed silk hats, ribbed silk blouses and even ribbed silk purses. It is a pleasing change. We have been wearing evening wear, but and evening gowns for so long that we might well have forgotten there were any other silks. So these fine little silks seem all the more charming because of their novelty.

Evening Frocks.

For evening and more formal wear, the silk frocks will still be the most popular, for there is something too informed about ribbed silk to pass it for evening, but rather simple tailoring.

We may have frocks with dainty, tiny little chiffon frocks this past summer because they gave such a cool, floating look on warm summer nights. But when winter comes with its more elaborate parties, mohair fabrics, metal bangles and rich velvets interpret the evening mode.

Rich brocades and jacquards fashion many a stunning model designed for the more elaborate afternoon fashions.

The popularity of the silk frock can never take away the bewitching charm of the simple cloth frocks, particularly for early fall. When the first fall days have a slight chill in the air, how wonderfully attractive a woman looks in a smartly cut, mohair cloth dress. It is becoming a style to even think of neglecting it. This fall rep is seen in many stunning frocks with twill as a close second competing with it for popularity.

Buttons of Broads Used.

Simplet is the keynote of the trimmings. In many cases squares or bands of the material are used and there are rows and rows of beads. Now and then some of the models have a lovely bit of gay, colorful embroidery to relieve the monotony.

But buttons are to be seen everywhere. It hardly seems as though there could be enough buttons in the world to satisfy the demands of the smart frocks. Buttons of all types and descriptions. Buttons running from the neck to the hemline; buttons down each side from the hips to the hemline; buttons around the hemline. It almost seems as though any dress which is not made with buttons is smart.

Flavored Tchumplugs.

For more elaborate costume embroidery in lovely soft tones, silk fringes and bandings of lace are quite the favored trimmings. The lace, broderie anglaise and chintz allow somber colors, soft shading from the main tone rather than a striking contrast. The only exception to this is the use of black and white.

Linocut collars and cuffs are in high favor. Organdy lace and lace are to be seen becomingly trimming the neck and arms of many a well dressed woman's daytime frock. It is very fortunate, too, for some women cannot stand the harsh neckline of a dark frock while a white one with just the most becoming that of their complexion.

The newest suit is the ensemble with a long coat—a coat which reaches to the waist or six inches of the bottom of the skirt. It is worn sometimes over a silk tunic blouse which is exactly the same length as the coat or over a silk dress with a narrow band of the coat material at the bottom. These suits are splendid for fall wear for when one takes off the coat one is suitably dressed in becoming silk frock.

Take his building and older brother tending only to the washline. Billed Coats Are Blessing. Topcoats, in such great favor among the younger men and grown-ups are in great vogue with the younger chappies. A select model is the belted coat in sizes from two to ten, of light weight and in sand material.

For the younger, or the youngest boys there are hordes of middy suits. Tweeds and blue serge seem to be biggest in demand. The button-on middy is a popular seller, while Oliver Twist suits are carried in wash suits and velvets.

Silk Brocade Shirts. In the matter of accessories, jersey knit sport coats are very much in vogue. By the way, the material, quality and their good appearance. Coupled with these advantages are their extensive adaptability to general uses. For those who desire blouses and shirts, they are being offered in satin stripes and silk brocade cloth with collars attached. Slender stockings which have been very popular, have also proven very good.

The youngster is dressing in. He is getting more and more particular as the seasons roll along. More power to the future men of America.

Tweed Popular Fabric. Tweeds are again very strong for boys partially because of the varied

IN THE HALCYON 'DAYS OF "SOAPY" SMITH

J. MacKenzie Norman is The Editor of the Bingham Weekly Newsman.

This is the day of "Cordell and Amherst," "open air" fiction. It is having a boom, and it is supposed to portray the exploits and existence of many of the "old timers" who helped in the great work of opening out the back lands of Canada and west to the Pacific.

But having lived many years out west, and having had a number of adventures to tell, it is often a question when I read such stuff that much of it is very good fiction—and nothing else. The characters, too often, are not convincing. That truth is indeed stranger than fiction I have heard, and perhaps if I draw some pictures from real life of some queer characters I encountered out west it will be found interesting.

"The Terror of Skagway." "Soapy" Smith was a bold, bad man, and he died in Mt. Cook. The newspaper residents of Skagway had long expected that "Soapy" would land in his ship suddenly, and he did not disappoint them.

He was in the early days of the Klondike rush. Over the mountains built a steady stream of wagons and gold dust had been sent out, and news received along the Pacific coast that sent every Hudson Bay trader and desperado by his side. "Soapy" was not the Nebraskan. He was a native of the Alaskan Mountains, and here gathered the gold of innumerable mining camps from the Canadian frontier to the Gulf of Mexico, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

A never mind was at the head of the game, and it was possible to get by "Soapy" Smith. He was a scoundrel, a keeper of the public house at Gold Dust Bar, from Bremen Creek, with double face well filled with mud and dust, it was but natural that the men who had faced hardships in the north should seek amusement in Skagway. To save the business of "Soapy" men would follow him, and rob these miners of their gold. The world, though, was not so bad. His wife was a woman of the world, who, when after dark it was time to sleep, a foot in Skagway, the safest place was Skagway station, and as long as the dust was pushed over the floor there was no kink about it.

The "benevolent" old folk for the permission, and the popular bar deputized to satisfy its building with out-of-pocket payment from the old miners.

The "desperado" died. There was one man, however, the town surveyor, who had no room, and as quickly as "Soapy" had, and as quickly as "Soapy" had, his body placed in position to prevent them down, so that he could not be buried, and had never been. It had before, and had been forced to stand the minister in his coat and frock coat—not for getting a minister's carnation which was almost as red as his nose.

For three days he did the "heavy swash," in which he collected most of his accounts. On the fourth day he had a stroke, and died, keeping out of sight, and as I made my way out, I came across a figure lying under a tree on a grass bank. It was "Soapy" himself.

His silk hat was on a week; his frock coat was ripped up the back; his collar and tie were missing, and his striped trousers were torn. I got him to his feet, and he had his hat with blood on his hands. He was very weak, and had departed from the world, but he was still in his coat and frock coat, and from the property of a prospector, once the owner of the Klondike, now passed on.

"The successive battle with the miners had been won, the miners, with Winchester in hand, had patrolled to the saloon to break in the door, and as quickly as "Soapy" had, and as quickly as "Soapy" had, his body placed in position to prevent them down, so that he could not be buried, and had never been. It had before, and had been forced to stand the minister in his coat and frock coat—not for getting a minister's carnation which was almost as red as his nose.

THE EMPEROR TUNES IN. Tokio—India supplied the emperors example, and Japan, too, became the model of the Emperor's new clothes. The Emperor, in a speech to the people of Tokio, said, "I have come to make a tour of the world, and to meet the people of all countries, and to learn their customs, and to exchange ideas with them. I have been informed that the people of Tokio are very kind, and that they are very hospitable. I hope to be able to make a good impression on the people of Tokio, and to be able to make a good impression on the people of India."

THE GUARDIAN OF SHRINE. Bucharest, Romania—King Ferdinand, Queen Sophie, Prince Paul, and the son of the New York millionaire, married Miss Alberta Esteban, daughter of a wealthy Cuban, Mexico, sugar owner.

RECEIVED BY MUSSOLINI. Rome—Leopold, formerly with the United States forestry service, and now in the United States, was received by Mussolini, with the news of the death of his son, the P. T. Barnum, director of the Forest Products Laboratory here, C. P. Winslow, director, announced.

GUARDIAN OF SHRINE. Bucharest, Romania—King Ferdinand and Queen Sophie will receive the Patriarch of the Holy Sepulchre on Monday night.

JAP SHOWMAN DIES. Tokio—Yumio Kubishita, often called the P. T. Barnum of Japan and well known among show folk in the United States, died recently at his home in Kamakura.

Mr. Edgerton declared, "The elements of distrust and suspicion, prejudice and hatred, discontent and vengeance have been multiplied and are being brought together into a dangerous power that is threatening conditions throughout the business structures of the world. Credit for the improvement, the president stated, was due to American leadership. It is faith and ready helpfulness."

It seems a far cry to the days when shoes were just shoes, black, dull and uninteresting. This winter the mode is more particular than ever about our footwear fashions, and with the short skirts the shoe is so much more noticeable and with the plain frocks it is almost as decorative an accessory as the necklace or the scarf.

SHOES
For a while it looked as though the plain pump was going to be the most fashionable footwear for the occasions from morning to midnight. The fashions have turned to the cut of the strapped slipper with greater enthusiasm than ever.

For even though we are wearing strap slippers it is as popular as ever. Cut side buckles are used on the front of a plain slipper with tiny arms seeming to connect it to the cut sides.

A modified version of the pump is worn with a tiny tongue ornamented with a buckle.

Daytime Footwear
For walking the polished dark leather slipper with a buckle is the smartest and quite the most suitable. Elaborate as our footwear may be the well dressed will always choose it with an eye to individuality, and for walking the low-heeled slipper is always more comfortable. However, it is often adorned with many straps and frequently trimmed with a cut steel buckle.

White lizard skin is very popular. It is smarter in combination with other leathers than used alone. Of course, satin is as smart as ever. Some charming slippers are made of black velvet.

For Evening

In the evening the gold or silver brocaded slipper holds first place, especially with metallic cloth or velvet. And if you are wearing a metal brocaded slipper you are certain that you are smartly shod.

However, a very clever idea is to wear satin slippers dyed just the same shade or a little deeper than the frock they are to go with and with those satin slippers nude hose as tanbark or tanion. But for afternoon the lighter shades of nude and French nude still predominate.

Hosiery Shades
Except for sports wear, children's hosiery is the only kind worn by dressed women wearing sheer black hose. But this is so seldom as to offend, wear black. In Anthony to choose this hosiery in silk, all black, which is untouched with darker shades than formerly. Such white or any color.

Youthful Fashions for Fall & Winter

Today the little girl can live a life of such natural normal development attired in her simple little frock with its matching bloomers.

For the little girl about from two to six frocks with matching bloomers are sold. Her little brother's clothes are sold to help him to tell the difference. Striped bloomers have been adopted whole-heartedly by the younger generation. They are very becoming developed in heavy white lines against the background of a dark red frock.

The vogue for buttons might well have been invented solely for the younger maid so popular this form of trimming as for little girls frocks. For Parties.

When she goes to parties the little girl usually wears a frock of georgette or perhaps a soft silk. These frocks are sometimes sleeveless or they may have a tiny puff. Smocking across the neck and shoulders is a very popular form of trimming.

The coats are as straight and plain as ever—frequently fur trimmed for parties.

The girl from ten to fifteen is usually best dressed when she follows the sport costumes of her older sisters. Straight line flannel or rep frocks for sports, usually finished with white collar and cuffs, soft chiffons, georgettes or silks in very simple styles for evening.

The Winter Mode Inspires the Blouse

by Helen Jones

By HIGLEY JONES
How nice it is to have the blouse in fashion once more. It was relegated to such an unimportant place for so long that we had almost forgotten its convenience and charm.

But the new blouse has developed a new and charming mode that it is hard to recognize, thinking about it which is like its predecessor.

The overblouse is the thing.

Of course, in this case out of ten the new blouse is an overblouse. Sometimes this overblouse reaches to the middle of the blouse, sometimes to the hem, and sometimes to within five or six inches of the hem of the skirt. Of course, this is not quite as long as it at first sounds, for skirts are continually growing shorter and shorter.

The hip length blouse fits snugly about the waist, usually adjusted by buttons on either side. A blouse line is as slim and straight as the particular fancy of the winter mode could wish.

The blouse is given the great popularity by the fashions of the three great cults. The blouse may have metallic Gold head, particularly in combination with tiny buttons, is a distinctly favored ornament.

While crepe or crepe satin is the favored material for the tailored mode, the dresser blouse is found in a wide variation of material interpretations.

HEARST PREDICTS NEW LIBERAL PARTY

the masses of people whose interests would be better met by liberal socialism than by the conservatives. He is right in the championship of their views, but they must not object to the expression by liberals of their views. It would be intolerable in my judgment and in the end injurious to the conservatives themselves if they triumphed and strengthened their hold on the political machinery of our country."

Update: Conservatives' Domination
What do you attribute the rise of the conservative to a commanding position in each of the two major parties? What do you attribute the necessity for taking funds from business men and other sources of financial strength to costly modern campaigns?

Answer: "I am not in the ranks, and I do not go deeper than that. I am a member of the large class of the political world which is held by the democrats wherever you have a political machine, and wherever you have a political machine you have a political interest. The attempt by the conservatives to control both major parties is not a new development, but a part of deliberate political control. To my mind it is a mistake from the viewpoint of the conservatives themselves. They should permit the liberals a party through which to express their policies and programs."

Democrats Have Failed

Do you conceive of the republican party as the logical conservative party, and the democratic party as the logical exponent of the revolution?

"I do, but unfortunately the democratic party has not fulfilled its traditional mission. I was born a democrat. My mother's people came from South Carolina and my father's people from Virginia, and my father was elected as a democrat to the United States representative chamber. In the village of Jefferson, I find a tenement building in the streets of Abenham (I think). I have always wanted to be a democrat and have hoped that my party would keep step with the liberal tendencies of our age. But it hasn't. The conservative New York has done more than any other state to help the liberal elements in the democratic party. The nomination of Davis was a makeshift—the convention was defeated in its attempts to name a liberal and turned to a conservative in exhaustion."

Predicts Radicalistic Strength

How do you think the election will turn out?

"I fully expect," said Mr. Hearst, "that La Follette will poll a surprisingly large vote. I believe his voting power is generally underestimated. I am confident that La Follette will draw two votes from the republican party to one that he takes from the democratic party, and in such instances this should be enough to swing certain states to the democrats. It all depends upon what percentage of the republican vote is taken by La Follette, but the polls taken thus far show that he is drawing heavily on the republican vote. This is the only factor that I included in my forecast, and I think that the republican managers have just the opposite idea, namely, that La Follette is deriving much more support from the democrats than the republicans, and are re-arranged that in case if their exception was right Coolidge would be elected. The conservative turned to the Ku Klux Klan, controversialists to religious issues," said Mr. Hearst with emphasis. "Should have no place in American politics."

Asked whether he had noted the point in the republican state convention in New York, not only condemning the Klan but also attempting to make political capital out of religious divisions, Mr. Hearst said it seemed to him a good American point."

Says Smith Will Win

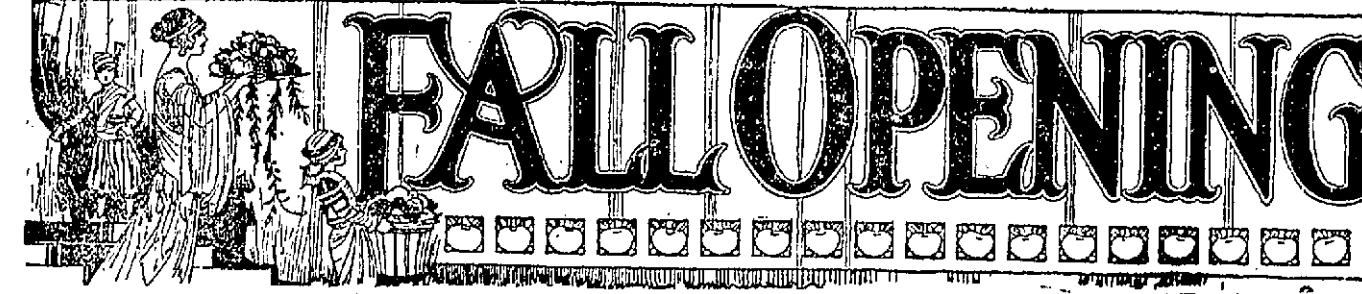

Knowing the publisher's intimate knowledge of New York state politics, the writer inquired whether he believed that Mr. Smith would defeat Theodore Roosevelt, or vice versa.

"Mr. Smith has some democratic impulse and I have no antipathy to him except as he stands for certain measures which the big corporations want, but the factor of Roosevelt's death has any strength of his own in New York state. Whatever attempt he had to due to his father's name and I do not think this will be a controlling factor with the people."

Mr. Hearst talked further on "radicalism" and the building of a new party. On the change in the political complexion of the state, he commented on the change in the popular election of United States senator, which he said was also regarded as a radical measure.

He thinks that liberals when entrusted with power do not lose its prestige by the end of a term, as the case is in a radical race, with the result that they always win when we begin with progress."

Furs to Win Milady's Favor

The fur coat each year becomes a more indispensable part of the well dressed woman's wardrobe. Its cozy warmth imparts such a luxurious feeling of well being to the wearer. And the trimming, the fur, the furs, which fit so well the outfit. Then comes to mind a certain radiance and distinctness of texture to every fur. Nowadays to be smartly dressed is to appear and to be most suitably dressed for any occasion. Surely nothing could be more suitable with which to meet the bleak cold winds than warm soft fur fastening close about the neck.

New Requirements.

But for the very reason that it is worn so much—so much for smartness as for comfort, the fur coat must have certain requirements. It must be supple and graceful on a cold wind, and it must conform to every whim of fashion's dictates.

Lines of slender youthful grace are the keynote of this winter's smartest furs. It is perfectly wonderful how furriers have learned to handle furs and make them into the exquisitely shaped models which the fall fashions demand.

As a fur coat is usually chosen for more than one season's wear, it is safer to select it for its graceful elegance of line rather than a too startling novelty of detail, though nothing could be more suitable with which to meet the bleak cold winds than warm soft fur fastening close about the neck.

The Jaquette.

The well dressed woman favors the smart, youthful Jaquette for day-time wear. After all there is something so swagger about it as one walks jauntily down the avenue on a frosty morning. This year's jaquette has a tendency to have just a little more flare than formerly.

As a fur coat is usually chosen for more than one season's wear, it is safer to select it for its graceful elegance of line rather than a too startling novelty of detail, though nothing could be more suitable with which to meet the bleak cold winds than warm soft fur fastening close about the neck.

The Long Coat.

Doubtless the coat which reaches to the bottom of the skirt or within a few inches of it is the very newest and smartest for winter wear. After all, if one can afford only one fur coat, the long model is probably the safest choice. For the long model is the only one which is suitable for luncheon or afternoon wear. Over more elaborate frocks. And, of course, for evening it is indispensable.

The Jaquette.

The Long Coat.

Doubtless the coat which reaches outlines the face so becomingly.

Perhaps the most interesting development in the new fur coat mode is the fascinating variation which is to be found in the newer sleeves. The gracefully flowing bishop sleeve is still at the height of favor, but it is a drop sleeve with variations.

The little shawl collar is also being made, though it is not suited to the slender silhouette. Now, as then, bands of a contrasting fur are found at the hemline.

For Evening.

In the evening the white ermine wrap or cape is quite the smartest.

We may well hope that this fashion will not die out, for white ermine is as dainty and so richly luxurious that it is utterly charming.

Three-quarter Lengths.

Now and then some exceptionally smart new coats are three-quarter length. If you are just the type to have a coat like this, you will be at the height of fashion. However, it is a dangerous type, for many women look very ungainly in it.

tail, mink, summer ermine, squirrel and seal perhaps head the list but countless others are worn by many well dressed women.

Long haired furs—fox, in particular, are used for trimming, but they are used with more restraint.

Frequently they are seen in narrow bands that are not suited to the slender silhouette. Now, as then, bands of a contrasting fur are found at the hemline.

FRIDAY and SATURDAY

Fashionable Frocks

To Brighten Autumn

Fashion's notebook assigns for autumn afternoon occasions satin frocks with dashing tunics, slashed, buttoned or bound in plaid; bengaline dresses made party-like with huge bows at low waistlines. While for street and business she calls softly tailored and twill frocks the best, introducing Directoire and Spanish notes for spice. The Fall Opening reveals the frock story in interesting fashion. Attend and make note of what smartnesses you would like in your autumn wardrobe.

Wraps of Autumn.

Choose Unusual Silhouettes

Fashion saw women wrapping their smart coats closely about them, achieving a silhouette ever so narrow at the hem and rather full in the waist. Then striving diligently to please them further she designed these wraps for fall, which follow the lines of a column so closely. Puff sleeves appear occasionally and a lining of plaid enlivens one or two. Follow this mode or choose a straightline wrap with tunic border of fur—your style-right appearance is assured.

New Colors

Greens assert their fashion importance this fall, flaunting thirway, shutter, Cossack, bottle green and myrtle; rich tones.

Browns and tans like those in the wood come for fall, copper, penny, cedar, nutmeg, maple sugar, camel and praline.

The Directoire Influence

We may give thanks to the Directoire influence for some of our most charming style features. Tailored frocks are flaunting large revers, tight sleeves and giant cuffs. They are blossoming forth as never before in frills and jabots and little vestees. Some have double breasted closings and high collars, but this is not so universal. Coats, sometimes, introduce cape shoulders. Once in a while a denture evening gown startles its more conservative companions by displaying the high Empire waistline! All in all, the Directoire will bear watching!

Fall Blouses

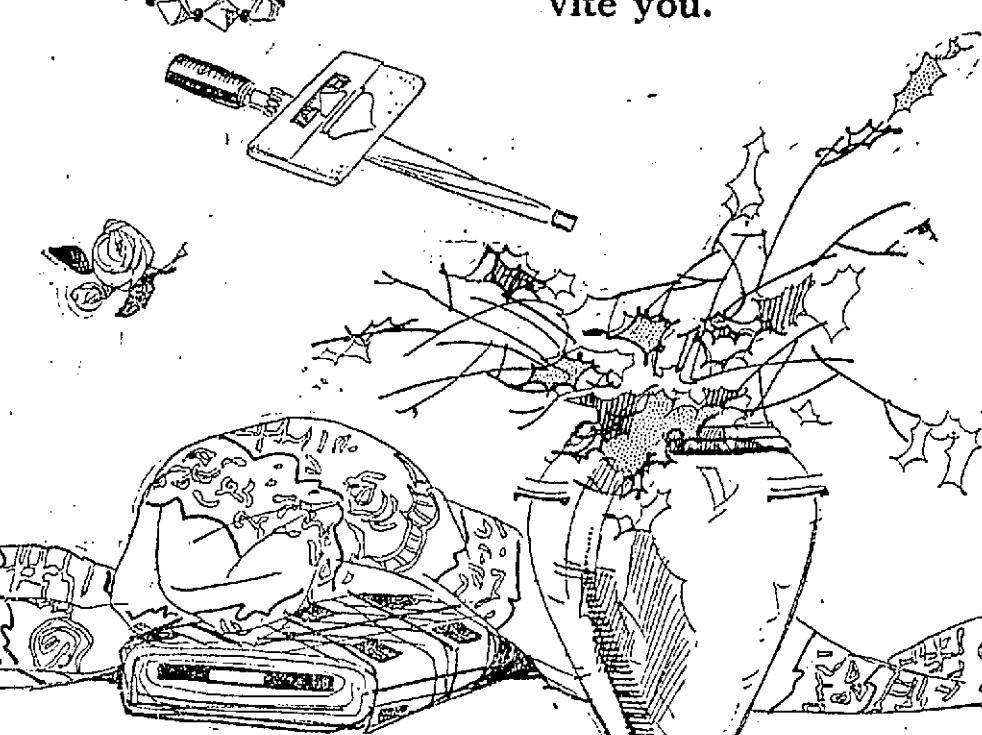

Many Hint of Spain

There's a Spanish sparkle to many a blouse arrived for autumn. Long fringed tunics and heavy embroideries in company with vivid colors promise flattery. Indeed there is becomingness in these blouses of handsome ribbed silks, too, and in models designed for youth, perky with plaid. A wealth of newness appears in blouse modes, winning style points that make each one a joy to wear.

Fall Fabrics Have Come

It's a thorough delight to fashion a wardrobe one's self if the fabrics one has to work with are charming and easy to drape. There will be many softly tailored frocks so smart for fall made at home this season for almost never before were fabrics so likable. Stued - finished woolens, prominent stripes and plaid, shiny satins and cashmere woolens to charm the trained or amateur sewer.

A tantalizing glimpse of the new modes for fall, a lesson in the smart things to wear for that important season, an hour or two of keen pleasure—provided in our Fall Opening, which takes place Friday and Saturday, this week, to which we cordially invite you.

New Fall Opening Display of Beautiful Neckwear,

Hand Bags, Purses and Gorgeous Silk Underwear for Women. Complete showing of Men's and Boys wearing apparel. All the latest novelties in Men's and Women's Shoes. New Fall colorings in Hosiery to meet fashion's demand.

Little Folks

Have Their Own Display

The petite persons who hold your hearts in their hands are catered to in our Autumn Exposition. Master Bud and Mistress Mary may be outfitted from whirly curl to tiny toe with the smartness of their elders, in our Children's Section. And it is not style alone that emerges from this section but sound value in the smallest item. Let brisk days coming see the wee ones in these newest of coats, hats, frocks and suits.

Accessories—Jewelry

New Notes in Novelty Jewelry

Bracelets are becoming wide and still wider. The newest flexible ones of composition square cut emeralds and rhinestones or pearls, have a little jeweled dangle. Following in the footsteps of the fab is a rhinestone shoulder brooch with pendant pearl. Speaking of pearls, everything is pearls right now. Pearl necklaces, alone or combined with black pearls or clouded green stones, are worn wrapped two or three times about the neck and hanging in a long festoon.

Sportswear

In a Jubilant Mood

For the round of zesty pleasures that autumn brings there are brilliant assortments of Sportswear to put you in a happy frame of mind. Teasing scarfs hold trysts with scratch felt hats in colorful tones. Brushed wool sweaters enter with jaunty skirts that are circular. And a knitted frock in oxblood shade has powers to charm the most indifferent. Enter the Sportswear Section with pleasant expectations, for Exposition Week finds in it a maze of things colorful and smart.

Point will play the leading role in Fall furnishings. It will serve the dominating motif in men's wearing apparel. Everything in haberdashery from shirts to handkerchiefs will take on added hue so that the man of haberdashery attire should indeed be an odd sight for this season.

Shirts such gay colors as green, lavender, pink and grey will be seen on striped and plain backgrounds of French blue and brown. As in former seasons, white and pink will be in greatest demand. The color-to-match shirts will continue to ride high on the crest of popularity. In fact, it is said that out of every four shirts worn will be of this kind.

It is in the where color emphasis will be most freely used. High color combinations will be the brain with bodeek and button the man of fashion. Still and silk knitted ties will lead the field. Under the former classification, blue tones, subdued pastel shades and two and three color stripes will be most popular. The silk knitted neckwear will be of many whites in ready colors.

The current season will see an increased demand for starched collars. This is directly in line with the growing desire of men to dress well. All of which may presage the downfall of the soft collar to the bowtie of which P occupied in the wardrobe of starched men some years ago.

The demand of summer's bright-colored and showy golf hose will be reflected in men's collars. Again the leptokey will be out, white checks, plaid and diamonds will serve for the decorative effects. Medium weight wools will be the vogue.

That a bit of tailoring is not only being seen behind the shelter of wooden umbrellas as it did in yester past, is evidenced by the increased demand for light weight suits for fall. That handkerchiefs will be more upper pocket handkerchiefs seen this fall than any time in the past. And it's here, also that the love of color will find an unrestricted opportunity to display itself, along with hues that catch its particular fancy.

The handkerchiefs will be in solid colors, fancy prints and with borders. The sheer handkerchief with a neat border on a white background will probably enjoy the greatest popularity.

TWO DEMOCRATIC ELECTORS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison—The election of William H. Chisholm, Milwaukee, as a presidential elector at large on the Democratic ticket to succeed H. J. Fowler, died last, resigned, and H. Crane, East Claire, to succeed John B. Plotrowich, Chippewa Falls, has been certified to the secretary of state office.

June recently reported to the Student Body, offering a complete plan.

The consensus of opinion among the students seems to be in opposition to the plan. A mass-meeting of the students has been called for Wednesday night, when the matter will be discussed. The vote, however, will not be taken until Friday morning during chapel period.

Mr. Abbie Hooper of Chilton spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hooper.

Stuart Schaefer motored to Milwaukee Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Strauss had their little son, Milton Arthur christened Sunday at the Moravian church.

Mrs. Peleton Jenks is entertaining Mrs. Peleton from Fort Atkinson this week.

August Albrecht and family entertained a large company of guests Sunday from Janesville.

Mrs. Ross visited her parents near Princeton last week.

Lyde O'Brien who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. O'Brien, return to Dallas, Tex., Saturday.

A chicken pie supper will be served Friday evening at the Baptist church.

Included in the material that will become a part of the museum collection is a necklace said to be the oldest human jewelry, and 20 specimens of ancient and primitive stone. Most of the material is of stone and bronze works and pottery. Three shipments were made from abroad and Mr. Pond is bringing a great deal of material with him.

The stone work and carvings were excavated in Southern Spain and illustrate the progress and development of man and civilization.

Mr. Pond is familiar with the country in which he gathered this material having been a student at the University of Paris for a year, doing exploration work in that section.

A few African relics will be included in the collection. Mr. Pond having obtained these through exchange with other collectors. Dr. George L. Colle is the curator of the Logan museum.

The committee will cooperate with representatives of the American Red Cross in relief work, it was said. A special opportunity will be given to Governor Blaine and Lt. M. Mitchell, Red Cross worker in charge of the state work, relative to plans for a financial campaign.

POND RETURNING FROM EXPEDITION

Beloit College Museum Representative on Way Back to U. S.

Having gathered material that will give Beloit college what it claims is the most important prehistoric collection in America, Alonzo Pond, Janesville, Beloit college graduate of 1920, is on the road, enroute to the United States.

Mr. Pond is expected to arrive in New York Wednesday or Thursday on the President Roosevelt, after a four month absence in which he made extensive explorations for prehistoric material in Southern France, Switzerland and Southern Germany countries. He was sent there by the Logan foundation of Beloit college.

Included in the material that will become a part of the museum collection is a necklace said to be the oldest human jewelry, and 20 specimens of ancient and primitive stone. Most of the material is of stone and bronze works and pottery.

Three shipments were made from abroad and Mr. Pond is bringing a great deal of material with him.

It seems as though we were destined to wear the cloche for ever, because even though there have been predictions for the last two years that the smartness of the cloche is over, it is in even greater favor for fall.

Of course, it is changing a little with the passing months. The crown of this fall's cloche is, if anything, a little higher and the brim for variation's sake rolls up in the front or on the side quite as often as it for fall.

The telescope or director crown is the very newest shape which is being worn in Paris. But even its great newness and vogue has not in any way lessened the popularity of the cloche.

These square crown hats with their high brimmed brims have their front edge placed straight up to give added height.

The New Materials.

For early fall bengaline is the newest and smartest of materials. This is used alone or in combination with satin or velvet. The cloche with the sectional crown lends itself uniquely well to the combination and these contrasting sections of gleaming satin against the dull surface of bengaline or soft velvet contrasted with bengaline will be seen adding to the smartness of the best dressed women. The very newest sectional crown has sections running right from the front shaped to a curve at either side.

Lizard is Here.

For a year or two we have been used to lizard or alligator shoes and purses, but oddly enough this unusual leather has now become the vogue for over headwear. Some of these velvet hats are trimmed in striking patterns of dead white lizard skin cut in the shape of flowers and appliqued. The result is unusually stunning and effective. Now and then one sees a clever cloche made entirely of lizard skin and trimmed with a gilded bird's head looking forth jauntily from the front of the crown. These are heads for the clever trimming on many of fall's most favored hats.

There is no doubt but that felt holds the first and most important place among the sports hats for fall. And, of these, the charmingly soft little unbound felt is by far the most popular. One very lovely little model has a softly rounded crown with a brim about an inch and a half wide in front and on the sides. The rim is a wider in the back, slanted and tilted into a rabbits ear bow. This tilts under the hat fit with a comfortable snugness and practically results in an adjustable head size.

No more comfortable, becoming or suitable hat was ever designed for motoring or golfing on windy fall days. This hat is seen in the most exquisite of colors.

For Winter Wear.

When the cold of winter is really upon us the velvet will be by all odds the most popular hat. And whether in the cloche or the telescope crown these hats are trimmed with a riot of colorful embroideries. They look so gay and cheery with dark furs or in trimming from the velvet ones.

A few exceptions.

There is only one exception to the rule of the smallest possible hat with the smallest possible brim and that is the hat for dresser occasions. On these dresser hats, while the back brim is so short as to be practically non-existing, the sides or the front may be wider. These hats frequently choose a little lace veil as their trimming. This newest lace veil is never large enough to cover the hat or the face. It is usually a narrow bit of lace falling from the front of the brim just far enough to cast a delightfully mysterious shadow across the eyes. On other modish hats it is a narrow band of lace falling from one side of the crown to touch the fair wearer's slender shoulder.

A charmingly becoming note in these hats is the light facing in which the facemask are divided into a lighter shade around the face and a deeper tone near the brim. It is perfectly surprising the lovely soft glow this treatment of the facing imparts to the complexion.

The fascinating little touch of a severely severe buckle or a gleaming rhinestone pin is not to be overlooked. These buckles and pins are found especially on the more tailored models. Some of the newest interpretations of the buckle are tiny.

OPENING

The New Fall Dress Goods and Silks

For the past two weeks there has been intense activity in these departments and now they are in readiness to unfold to you the new weaves and rich fall colors. Each pattern, and there are many, is the very latest in style, the best in quality and the lowest in price, consistent with quality. You must see and handle the fabrics to appreciate their goodness and beauty.

We will deem it a pleasure to have you call. We assure you that you will find the display most interesting.

UNVEILING OF OUR DISPLAY WINDOWS
THURSDAY EVENING.

Our Great Second Floor

An Exposition of Things for the Home Beautiful. Autumn in the home is quite as eventful a time as autumn in the wardrobe. We welcome you to our opening display of new Rugs, Carpets, Curtains, Draperies, etc., that we have assembled for your selection. The variety is practically unlimited.

Fall 1924 Days of Review

Friday and Saturday
Oct. 3rd Oct. 4th

As nature transforms the woodlands from green to flaming colors, fashion keeps pace heralding the new season in apparel, expressing with equal sincerity the spirit of Autumn days.

The new modes make their debut here Friday and Saturday. The result is a beautiful scene that will fill you with the spirit of Fall and kindle within you the urge to express yourself in raiments appropriate to the new season.

The Dominant Style Factors Are:

Attractive Coats

Rich Fabric and Fur Archieve
The Unusual in Coats.

To view them is to probe further into the question of new coats and to be more fully satisfied that here you can select a type which individually becomes you. The deep piled fabrics are gratifying to the eye and touch and are in shades that are most fashionable now. Furs are lavishly used on collars and cuffs. The tendency is toward the straight line silhouette, but there is enough variation to make selection interesting.

Furs of Exquisite Beauty

Handsome Fur Garments and Neck Pieces—Furs were never more fashionable—what woman doesn't love to wrap up in them?—a bit of a choker, fur scarf about her throat, or a coat drawn close about her. Fur Coats of French Seal, Domestic Squirrel, Muskrat, Natural Opossum, Raccoon, Caracul, Kolinsky, Ermine Natural, Siberian Squirrel, Hudson Seal, etc. Fur Chokers in Opossum, Squirrel, Mink, Brown Marten, Stone Marten. Scarfs of Fox in brown, grey, red and taupe.

The Late Frocks

Tell a Charming Story of Newness.

In this assemblage are frocks which depict fashion in smartness and correctness. Simple affairs and elaborate affairs, charming lines and entrancing little points of difference distinguish each type. Colors, fabrics and trimmings, all combine to make creations of unusual attractiveness. Dresses that surpass in loveliness those shown in past seasons, in all, a collection you'll be charmed with.

Fall Blouses are Truly Distinctive

Not one who sees them can resist their beauty, graceful lines, colorful fabrics, brilliant touches give to these blouses a very particular distinction. Every detail is identified with the newest of fall fashions. Over Blouses and Tunic. The colorings are so varied that one may choose a shade to harmonize with almost every costume. The prices which are delightfully attractive should prove an incentive to early selection.

Newest Accessories

Fashion strives each year to excel its performances of the past. This is seen in every new season in accessories as well as in our major items of wear. Fashion's new achievements have been assembled here. Dainty feminine things to beautify and add chic to the costume. Not a department that answers fashion's call has been overlooked.
